Paradox Reveals Men Hunting Work, Plants Hunting Men

Thousands of job openings, thousands of applicants looking for work.

That is the unusual situation currently existing at the Syracuse office of the United States employment service (as described yesterday by Harold S. Pierce of USES).

Explains Paradox

Explaining the paradox—the need of more applicants to fill jobs, and the need of more job listings to place job seekers—Pierce said: "USES is referring applicants only on strict specifications given by employers, and hundreds of jobs are going begging for lack of applicants who can meet these specifications. "On the other hand, there are hundreds of applicants with skills, training and ability who, while they cannot meet the requirements of present job openings, certainly could fill the requirements of employers who have not filed their labor needs with USES."

Pierce emphasized that the only way this situation could be remedied would be for all job seekers to register for work and for all employers to list their job openings with USES.

QUICK ACTION URGED

"Immediate action is especially important for two groups—high school graduates and war veterans," he continued. "It is true there are not the job opportunities for youth that there were in recent years, but surprisingly enough, the high school graduates are not actively seeking work either."

"These graduates should register immediately, and employers who have job opportunities to offer should list them at once. USES, with its counseling techniques and labor market information, will try to get the right boy or girl into the right job."

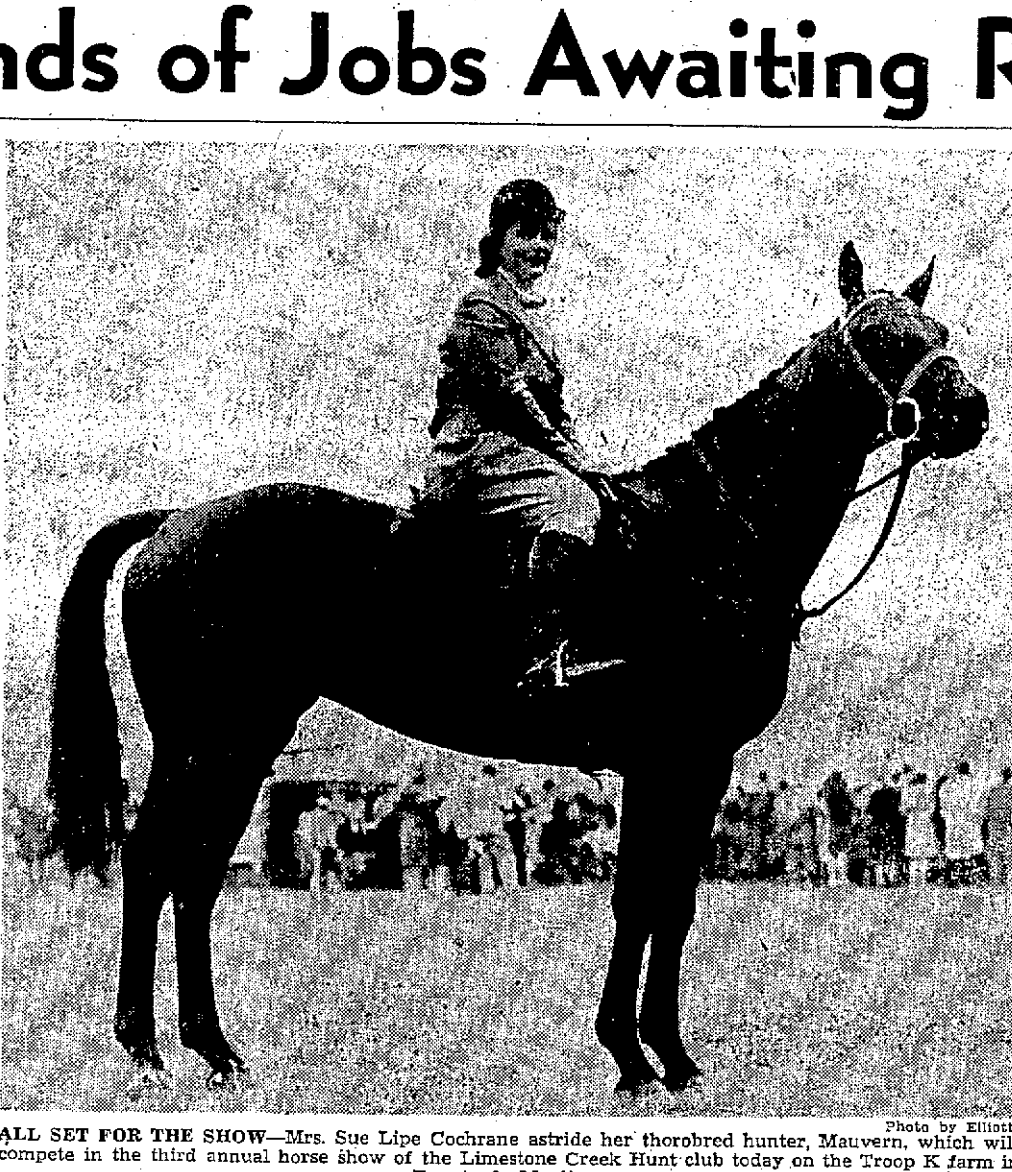

"More jobs are needed for veterans, in spite of the fact that Syracuse has been doing wonderfully well in getting these men and women back on their old jobs or giving them entirely new work. Some employers are taking advantage of on-the-job training and apprenticeship programs. Others are training new workers—returned veterans—without the benefit of approved training programs, and all are doing a good job."

HIGH TURNOVER

"Veterans of world war 2 do not stay on the job as long as they are registered for work for long periods. There is a very high turnover, as they rapidly find work, get into their school program, or go into business for themselves."

Pierce estimated that of about 4,000 veterans drawing readjustment allowance in Syracuse, only approximately 2,000 are actively seeking work. The remainder, experience has shown, are waiting for reinstatement to old jobs, have new jobs promised in a short time, are planning to go to school, are going into business for themselves or need further advice or counseling before they are ready for the labor market.

For those seeking work, Pierce had this request: "Keep your records up to date. Notify USES of any change in address or telephone number. Every month many qualified applicants lose good job referrals because our office is unable to reach them, as their new address is unknown."

Bond Redemptions Close to Total Onondaga Sales

Sales of E, F and G savings bonds in Onondaga county during the first four months of 1946 totaled $5,968,540, and redemptions amounted to $4,958,164.

The figures were given out yesterday by J. Gosman Wynkoop, deputy manager, District 4 of New York state savings bonds division of the treasury department.

He reported that 23,650 persons in the county are buying bonds regularly thru the payroll savings plan. Wynkoop explained that he had just completed a savings bonds survey thruout District 4 which embraces Onondaga and eight other counties.

He found that sales of E, F and G bonds in the district, January thru April, aggregated $17,531,315, and redemptions, $12,661,769; and that 32,861 persons were enrolled in the payroll savings plan.

"It is expected," Wynkoop said, "that the nationwide promotional campaign now being conducted by the United States savings bonds division will add greatly to the number of workers who will place part of their wages in the safest of all investments."

"While the sale of savings bonds in the nation is proceeding at the annual rate of more than $8,000,000,000, an amount which exceeds predictions for 1946 made last December, it is interesting to note that the net public debt of the nation will, on June 15, be $10,000,000,000 less than its peak established in February of this year."

The following table shows sales and redemptions of E, F and G bonds in each of the nine counties of District 4 in the first four months of 1946:

County	Total Sales	Total Red'pt's
Cayuga	$ 1,213,011	$ 757,393

Draft, Still Cases Listed for Court Opening Tuesday

The June term of federal court will open Tuesday at Albany with Judge Edward S. Kampf presiding, U. S. Attorney Irving J. Higbee announced yesterday. The grand jury has been called for that day and after meeting Wednesday and Thursday will continue in session all of the following week.

Among cases to be moved for trial, according to Higbee, is that of Merrill Lester, 215 Gifford st., who is charged in an indictment with failure to notify his draft board of a change of address and failure to report for induction.

Lester was indicted Dec. 12, 1944 and pleaded not guilty when arraigned on the charge May 14, 1946. Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert Leamy will represent the government.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Andrew Culick is expected to present liquor cases involving a still—the first of its kind in many years.

Also scheduled for trial is the case involving the Mission Beverage Co., Inc., Endicott, and Joseph Barbara, 405 Loder ave., Endicott. The indictment filed last month charges them with acquiring sugar and possessing sugar illegally, the purchase, etc., of counterfeit ration stamps and illegal transfer of counterfeit ration stamps and illegal acquisition of ration document.

Forty-one counts are listed in the indictment which alleges the violations occurred at different dates from May 21, 1943, to and including July, 1945. Assistant U. S. Attorney Edmund Port will handle the case for the government.

Executive Body Approves Tentative Memorial Plans

Preliminary plans for the Onondaga county war service memorial building were approved by the executive committee of the memorial corporation, of which Harbut W. Smith is chairman, at its meeting in the chamber of commerce headquarters Friday night. It was officially announced yesterday.

Samuel B. Sisson, chairman of the building committee, submitted the preliminary plans which had previously been adopted by his group. The estimated cost of the structure, which actually will be two buildings under one roof, will be made known when detailed plans are completed.

Shown at present are outside and inside dimensions, seating arrangements, capacities and facilities for conventions, cultural and sporting events.

The building will occupy the entire block bounded by Madison S. State, Harrison and Montgomery sts. The main entrance is to be in Montgomery st. into a vast memorial lobby where will be enshrined the names of all men and women who died in service in the two world wars.

Above the lobby will be meeting rooms for veterans' organizations and similar groups.

Dimensions of the entire building will be 283 by 287 feet, by 65 feet high. The first section, or so-called concert hall, designed for 3,000 permanent seats, will have a stage as large as that of the Metropolitan Opera house in New York city. The hall will be 55 by 287 feet.

The second section of the building will be 228 by 287 feet and will provide for athletic events of various kinds, such as hockey, basketball and boxing. For hockey there are to be 6,000 permanent seats available in space for additional seating. Provision is made for 8,000 seats at basketball games, and for boxing there will be 9,000 seats, according to the preliminary plans.

With the completion of the building, Syracuse will have its long-discussed convention hall—space and facilities to accommodate large gatherings.

The executive committee of Onondaga County War Service Memorial, Inc., in announcing the preliminary plans, yesterday, said: "The aim and purpose of the memorial corporation is to create a fitting and lasting memorial for all those who served and died in defense of the nation in world wars 1 and 2. Also it will be a development to be used by all of the people of the city and county."

"Members of the corporation feel that if the men and women who have died in service could say what memorial they would desire, they would select one which would be of use for the cultural and physical development of the youth of the community."

Smith is scheduled to be at the following farm bureau offices on the dates and at the hours indicated, to assist in the preparation of loan applications:

Heart-Shaped Medal, Given by Jesuit Priest To Onondaga Indian, 1654, Found in Pompey

A small, heart-shaped medal, apparently given by a Jesuit priest to an Onondaga Indian about 1654-1655, was found Memorial day afternoon on Indian Hill, Pompey, by Stanley M. Gifford, 946 Euclid ave., an archeologist.

Of brass, the medal is what Gifford reports a "true heart shape." On the front is a figure evidently representing Madonna and Child. On either side of the figure are what look like suspended incense burners.

The most interesting part is on the back. In the center is the Crucifixion. At its left are these letters, which are either Latin or Greek, according to the finder:

STRANGE INSCRIPTION
X P S V ; R E G N ; M P E ; E O V ; M On the right side are these: I N X P S ; X P S I ; X P S A ; N I A ; N D.

Above the Crucifixion are engravings of the sun and of the moon.

Efforts to have the letters translated are being made. Gifford found the medal—which is green with age—while he and Mrs. Gifford were searching the area for relics.

The archeologist said he spends most of his spare time constantly on the hunt for traces of the early Iroquois. Thousands of Indians are buried in the Pompey region, he said.

The site where the medal was picked up was visited by Father Lemoyne in 1654 and a year later the first mass was celebrated there by another Jesuit.

HAS 100,000 RELICS

Gifford believes the priest gave the medal to an Indian who subsequently lost it at the spot.

Gifford, who has been on the trail of ancient Indian civilizations for 15 years, has more than 100,000 relics he has found. Most of the pieces are in storage, he said, but his three-room apartment is decked with ancient Indian lore, much of it from this region.

Bank Employees Are X-rayed

The Syracuse department of health, with more than 23,000 chest X-rays to its credit already, last week examined the employees of First Trust and Deposit Co.

Dr. Leon B. Chadwick of the health department conducted the X-ray survey, assisted by technician J. B. Johnson and Miss Doris Hinman of the Onondaga Health association.

First Trust employees were X-rayed at the rate of about 100 a day. The examinations reveal tuberculosis symptoms even before a person feels sick, and have proven a great help in discovering the disease in its early curable stages.

The First Trust and Deposit Co. is the first bank in Syracuse to offer this service to its employees. X-rays were not limited to employees alone, but included any members of their families who wished to be examined. Mrs. Edna Houghton and Miss Jane Fraas arranged and supervised the schedule of examinations.

Costello Backs Smoke Abatement

City Engineer Nelson F. Pitts and James H. Mullahey, municipal research bureau director, yesterday were assigned by Mayor Costello to work on smoke-abatement possibilities in Syracuse.

Costello said he took action after representatives of the Onondaga County League of Women Voters, led by Mrs. A. McKinley Terhune, president, suggested co-operation with the project of smoke-abatement they are carrying forward this year.

Downey to Outline Veterans' Rights

Walter F. Downey, chief of the veterans service branch of the war assets administration, will be in Syracuse Tuesday night, to address the rights of veterans of world war 2 in the purchase of surplus government property.

Under the amended surplus property act veterans have priority in the purchase of surplus after federal agencies. In addition, certain property has been set aside exclusively for certified veterans for their own personal use, and to enable them to establish their own small business, professional or agricultural enterprises.

These set aside items include automotive vehicles, construction, mining and excavating machinery, agricultural machinery, tractors, typewriters and medical, surgical and dental apparatus and equipment.

Underwriters to Meet

Life Underwriters Association of Syracuse will meet at noon Thursday for the final business meeting of their fiscal year. Officers for the coming year will be elected at the meeting. William M. Hanley, retiring president, announced.

SEEKS TO IDENTIFY RELIC

Efforts are being made by Stanley M. Gifford to find reference to a heart-shaped religious medal he found at Indian Hill, Pompey. He holds the medal in his hand. On table are other local relics.

Thornden Aglow With Blossoms

Peak of the rhododendron and azalea season is now on in Thornden, Parks Commissioner William A. Barry reminded flower-lovers yesterday.

Beds along the Madison st. entrance are in their best show, Barry noted. He said the display was not as full as had been planned, because an order for 200 rhododendrons was canceled by the nursery a short time ago.

Parks department workers have finished spring plantings in Onondaga park, Barry noted, and Thornden is expected to be completed Tuesday.
