Congress

WASHINGTON, May 16—(UP)—Senate Republican leaders charged today that officials are illegally putting out propaganda for the administration's $5,828,000,000 foreign aid program.

GOP Sen. Robert A. Taft (O.) and Homer A. Ferguson (Mich.) said they are "appalled" by the number of pamphlets published by the State department and Mutual Security Agency in connection with the program.

Taft said they may be an outright violation of the law since the MSA act forbids use of foreign aid funds for use as "general propaganda" in support of the program.

Chairman Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.), of the senate foreign relations committee, said he has ordered all such material sent to the committee for study.

Other developments: Taft-Hartley-Republicans on the senate labor committee have tentatively agreed on a formula to exempt business firms and public utilities doing primarily a local business from the Taft-Hartley labor law. It was disclosed today.

Seizure—Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind.-Ore.) introduced a bill for presidential seizure of strikebound vital industries, subject to congressional veto.

Alaska—A house subcommittee voted 12 to 5 to grant statehood to Alaska. A bill providing statehood for both Hawaii and Alaska is tied up in the senate interior committee.

Three Ways to Have More Lilacs

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

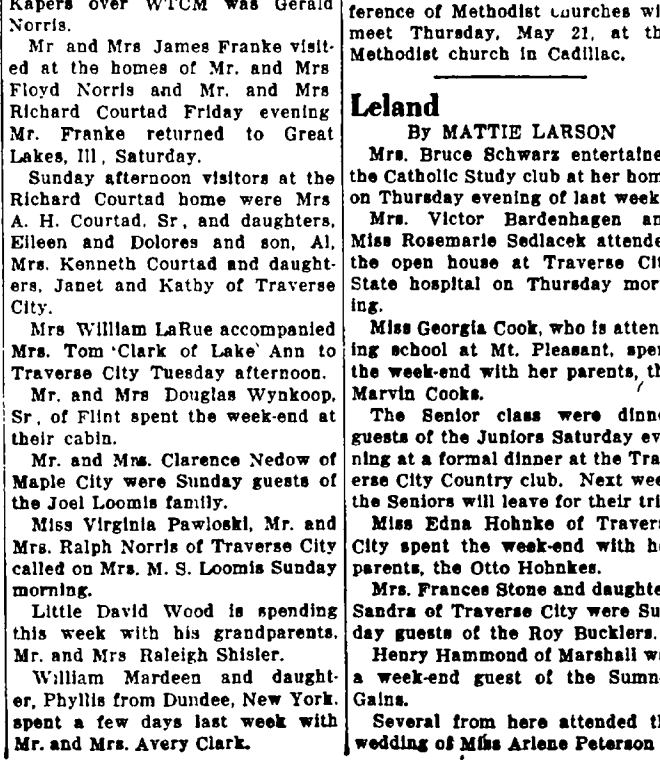

IF YOU HAVE good varieties of lilacs and wish to increase your planting there are three ways by which the amateur gardener can propagate them with pretty good assurance of success—cuttings, layering and by using sections of sucker growth.

If you have a cold frame, take softwood cuttings from your lilacs about the middle of June. Each cutting should be two or three inches in length, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Take the cutting just below a node. Snip off the lower leaves, as illustrated. They will be the pair just above the node.

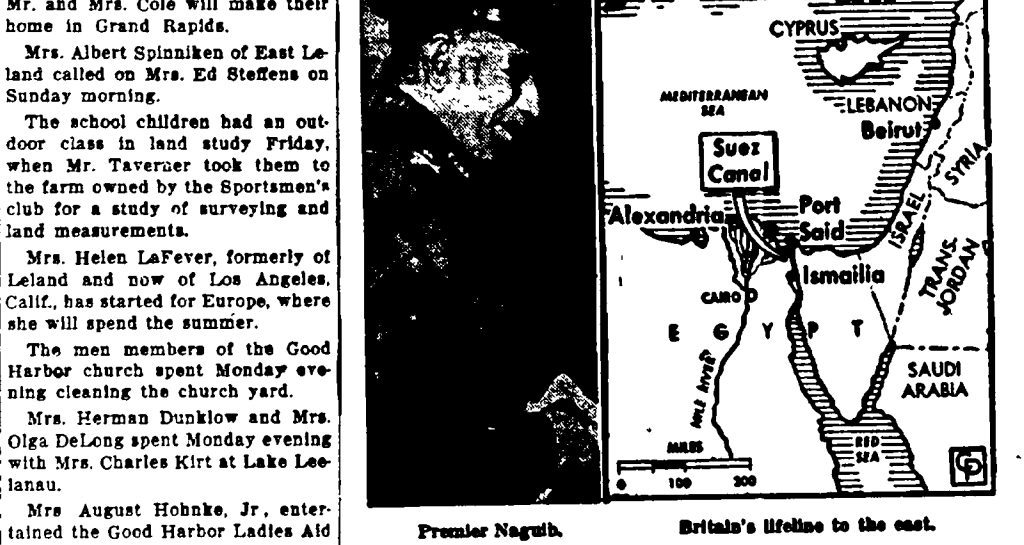

Place the cuttings in sand in the cold frame. Keep the sand moist and the cold frame closed and well shaded during the summer. Cuttings started in June should be well-rooted by August. It is advisable to continue to give the cuttings protection of the cold frame over the first winter. The cuttings can be set out the following spring.

When lilacs are grown on their own roots, they can be propagated by using sections of suckers, as illustrated. This does not require a cold frame. Detach the suckers in spring or fall when the plants are dormant. It will take a year or two to develop a satisfactory plant from a section of sucker.

To increase lilacs by layering, select a low branch which can be bent to the ground easily. Cut a slight notch in the part which is to be buried. Hold the notch open by means of a pebble or silver of wood. Leave only the tip foliage on the branch. Pin the branch down to the ground with a clothespin or loop of wire. Cover the middle portion of the branch with friable soil. Two months after the young roots have formed where the branch was notched, the new bush can be cut away from the parent plant and set out in a permanent location. Protect it with straw over the first winter.

British soldier on guard as a liner moves through the Suez canal.

UNLESS THE BRITISH withdraw their 80,000-man Suez canal garrison within the next few weeks, there will be a popular uprising, is the prediction in Egypt as Egyptians point to fresh outbreaks of anti-British violence. Hundreds of British and Egyptians have been killed since Egypt abrogated its Suez treaty in October, 1951, demanding evacuation. The British are reported digging trenches and setting up tank guards at several canal points, and in London one end of the canal in Egypt have brought Britain "nearer to a new war than we have been since...
